AND 5 WAYS TO STOP THEM

Organize a team with reps from both on and off campus, including students, parents, IT, faculty and local and campus police.

Conduct a thorough risk assessment. Identify campus safety risks such as theft, burglary, rape and assault.

Based on your risk assessment, set several short- and long-term goals. Goals will help you prioritize services and programs.

Educate the entire campus on safety risks, harmful myths, reporting tools, disciplinary action and laws against retaliation.

Find and adopt tools that help to make campus safer, such as case management software and alert systems.
